Original Face

Life is a stream which flows from sources unknown.
-- Emerson

In this painting the white lines represent awareness, the black ground is emptiness. The primordial awareness that is our "original face" is prior to and beyond the birth and death of the physical body, yet is potentially realizable throughout our lifetime. Our lives are ripples in the flow of spirit. To realize one's true nature, one's original face, is to align with the template of perfection that is the fountain of wisdom, compassion and healing.

One of five panels, each 17" x 24", oil on linen, 1995. Private Collection.
